

What is Miss Sampson's letter is

Hotel Siret,

June 17th - 1850

My dear Mrs Chapman.

I send for your perusal sent the such an answer to the Glasgow circular as I think I can usefully write, - having however Bristol, & other friends in view, more than the Scotch ladies. I may perhaps add a postscript referring to your letter, &

Acting that mine was written before I left England. I do not wish it to be supposed that I waited for a personal communication with you before I replied to the service ~~received~~ paper sent to me.

On again reading was the document, though I think it artfully devised, (perhaps by an American minister) I certainly arising it all you suppose, it I do not perceive that it really goes further than to declare that these "friends of the slave" would be very glad to assist in Liberality measures that were did not connect with them the propagation & defence of "infidelity" - the Boston society not being free from this objection, they could not conscientiously act with it, & must limit their

A. S. efforts to the "N. York. Veg Com."

I think it probable that they have never forgiven

Garrison, Wright, & Douglass for their attacks upon the delegates who collected money in the U.S. for the Free Church movement and are taking the present means of damaging the American her?

It will not be well to give them the opportunity of saying that they are supposed to aim at anything more than their circular duties.

Sincerely Yours
J. B. Lottin
